
White Student Union Proposed At Towson University By Matthew Heimbach Sparks Controversy

Posted: 10/10/2012 11:44 am Updated: 10/11/2012 2:20 pm

A Towson University student has proposed a campus White Student Union, leaving administrators and the student government walking a fine line between students' First Amendment rights and avoiding what many are calling outright racism at the Maryland university.

"Every ethnic group has its own advocacy group but white students don't," Matthew Heimbach, a senior studying U.S. history at Towson, told The Huffington Post.

Tensions were further inflamed last week when the group brought Jared Taylor to campus. Taylor is described by the Southern Poverty Law Center as a "white nationalist" who has argued black hate crimes against whites exponentially outnumber white-on-black hate crimes. Taylor came to offer support for the proposed White Student Union, claiming it "a spectacular double standard that only whites are singled out and told they can't have a race-based organization."

In his presentation at Towson, Taylor reportedly explained why diversity is a problem, citing examples like race riots in prisons.

Heimbach is no stranger to controversy. He led a campus chapter of Youth for Western Civilization, an anti-multiculturalism right-wing group which lost its recognition by the Towson student government last spring when its faculty adviser resigned. Members of the YWC were accused of chalking "White Pride" around campus.

Heimbach said he thought forming the White Student Union would have broader appeal after the YWC fallout. He insisted the people who are most vocal in their opposition to a White Student Union are the same as those who hated the YWC and aren't fans of college Republicans.

"Any time there's a group with conservative principles and white students standing up for themselves, it's a battle cry for radical leftists on campus," Heimbach said. "There's nothing I could do or say ... to try and get these people on the same page as us."

Many of the students who spoke to HuffPost compared this White Student Union to that now-disbanded Towson chapter of YWC.

"The rhetoric used to justify the YWC and now the White Student Union is just a means to legitimate open hate speech on the grounds of embracing the right to free speech," said Raul Ceballos, a 22-year-old junior at Towson.

Glenn Daniels Jr., who graduated from Towson last year, said the White Student Union would be the exact same thing at the YWC, and he isn't wasn't sure why the university is giving Heimbach a chance to form another group. Daniels said many students don't feel comfortable with a group like this on campus.

"I have full confidence that the president is taking the right steps [but] I'm disappointed in the Student Government Association," Daniels said. He hopes the SGA denies Heimbach's request to be an official Towson student group.

Brandy N. Hall, president of the Towson SGA, told HuffPost it remains an "unbiased party" and hasn't received paperwork from Heimbach yet. So for now, "SGA has no opinion."

So far, 1,128 people have signed a petition calling for Towson President Maravene Loeschke to denounce the White Student Union.

Victor Collins, assistant vice president of student affairs for diversity at Towson, insisted in a recent interview with HuffPost Live that it will not allow racist groups on their campus.

"The organization has the right to exist as long as they follow all the rights and regulations; we cannot stop a group from forming an organization," Collins said. "No student organization on our campus can in fact restrict by race membership. The black student union has white members."

Many also questioned why a student would feel the need to form a White Student Union, given that the school is predominately Caucasian. English professor Lena Ampadu Ph.D., has taught at Towson for three decades and said the majority of the campus has always been white. Currently, 68 percent of Towson's student population is white.

"If people would want to start a white student union at an HBCU (Historically Black College & University), it would make more sense," Collins said.

Heimbach said there are many issues his group would address. He said he knows white female students who feel they're not protected on campus and white students who have been reluctant to file bias reports. Heimbach said he has more than a dozen students interested in joining his group.

If they're approved by the SGA, they'll bring in speakers, discuss affirmative action and "stop talking about white identity as something that's negative," Heimbach said. He also hopes to launch "an awareness campaign about the rising black on white crime, especially in the Baltimore area." He also recently announced his group would perform night patrols and potentially make "citizen's arrests."

Critics point out Americans of European descent generally considered today as white -- such as Italians, Germans and Slavs -- were once regarded as minorities.

But Heimbach said he wishes people would "stop insulting white students for simply trying to stand up for who they are."

Ceballos doesn't think Heimbach gets it. "The nature of minority student groups on campus has always been an avenue for self-expression, empowerment, solidarity and social engagement in a predominantly white institution," Ceballos said, with that institution being the college campus.

"Heimbach's assertions that there is some sort of bias against white people at Towson is ignoring the sheer fact of the cultural hegemony that encircles college campuses nationwide," Ceballos added. "Minority under representation, whether intentional or incidental, is a very real phenomenon within our country."

Quick Poll

Should Towson University allow a White Student Union to form on campus?

Yes, why not?

Unfortunately yes. Sometimes free speech and freedom to assemble is uncomfortable.

No! This is racism.

I'm not sure.

So hold on..if race-based organizations' underlying reason for existence is to preach ethnic pride of one group to the detriment of another, as some of the numbskulls at Townson are suggesting, then race-based organizations should be outlawed. For one, because their names alone imply that cross-ethnic membership is not an underlying goal.

Since White people are the most dominant demographic at Towson, what would they need advocacy for? Also, the claim that the organization would be useful because, "He said he knows white female students who feel they're not protected on campus..." is a dogwhistle saying that either White female students are being preyed upon by students of color on campus or that the protection of female students who are White is a bigger concern than the protection of females of color.

It's weird when a group whose culture is considered the default is completely oblivious to their own hegemony and without constant validation, feels threatened.

For one, no culture is considered "default" in America, not by a long shot. Anyone who has traveled extensively and lived in various places around the country can tell you as much. Your argument starts from the point of ethnic bias and is therefore faulty.

America is founded on principles which apply equally to all people and that means that all people, regardless of race, should be allowed equal opportunity of endeavor. If you start to limit their freedom in doing so because of their race (in this case white) then you are being by definition: racist.

No amount of Latin fluff is going to change that.

While America may be founded on principles of equality, they have not always applied to anyone; otherwise there would not have been any need for the amendment outside of the Bill of Rights.

And yes, there actually is a default culture, when you look at the ongoing civil rights struggles groups outside that default culture face; Jim Crow, the War on Women, racial profiling, etc. All those things face opposition by a common element; an element that has burned crosses on people's lawns, an element that has gathered signatures to put same-sex marriage on ballots as referenda, an element who feels that unless their cultural dominance receives constant validation, they meltdown and accuse the rest of us of prosecuting "wars" on things like Christmas, Christianity, "traditional" marriage, etc.

Wow... As a alumni I am shocked that this is happening at my school... As a human being I am disgusted by the comments below... The comments have moved from a healthy discussion on the right to form "support groups" based on race or heritage too an all out example of our lack of a decent social studies education in our country...the ignorance is shocking and disappointing... Our country is not a homeland for just one race it is a home for all races and that is what makes us great... we will always divide ourselves up and relate more to those with similar background and heritage but it is important we respect each other.... We maybe different in our heritage but we have a common thread we are all American and no one is more American then another American... Once you are a citizen this is your homeland... Group that support and assist people should always be allowed... Groups that preach division and hate should not... Period...

Well folks, I hate to tell you. But now that we know what the Liberal agenda is now that we know that Universitie are being allowed to teach that White people are devils, that people of color cannot be racist and all of this other crap. Its time for White's to stand and organize, to STOP the ignorance that we've olet go for far to long without a response. I am in my 50's and I've lived and worked with blacks most of my life. I can pretty much guarantee that white people over the last forty years have had more racial inequality and racially attacked much more than any other group. It is time for that to stop. I'm not saying this group should be nothing more than organizing for the rights of white people.

Read history yourself chief. Every race has struggled. Every race has been enslaved. It all depends where in the world you look, and how far back you go in history. The only way to move past issues of race is to turn a blind eye to color. Honestly, I oppose all race based distinctions in the favor of one human race. In my view there can be no white club, black club, Hispanic club, etc... Any time a distinction is made by race racism is occurring by definition.

Back to my first point. It is both true, and valid.

There are many black only organizations such as "Miss Black America" "BET" etc and you never hear a peep out of white people complaining.

The sensitivity of blacks against a white only organization is understandable vis a vis the connection of a history of racism against blacks.

There are already many white only fraternities and soroties and many black only fraternities and sororties. I suggest they leave well enough alone and if you want a homoginized group of people do it quietly and not for the obvious reason for some cheap publicity.

A White Student Union is the premier opportunity to amplify what's wrong with higher education in America. Pointless establishments wasting school funds. Like nonprofits, student organizations should address serious problems. Not to mention, that Free Speech is limited. Always has been. Maybe Townson needs an organization for that. At least, it's an issue.

Really? What about when a black organization like the Black panthers openly say racial things and no one says anything? why the double standard? I am tire of liberals (and guess what, I am hispanic) wanting to put another group based on the actions of previous generations. If your parents were to commit a crime, should you be responsible? They have as much of a right as any asian, hispanic, black, latino, etc club has a right to form. Yes, we are all human but we are also different, each with our own inculcated values and socio-psychological norms that influence our primal instincts from the days many humans only traveled in small groups; the feeling to not want to integrate or mix with individuals that seem completely different is normal. You say freedom of speech is limited, then who limits Jesse Jackson's racial speeches? Why is okay for some minorities to say what they want? Again, I am hispanic, born in El Salvador, but I am not a hypocritical liberal who only sees the other extreme, without seeing my own. Double standards are what is wrong in today's educational system, as they influence how history, and various humanities are taught. You are right, though. The issue here is freedom of speech and whether or not it should be noted that if is all or nothing.

Why does the White Student Union's argument address Black organizations? Why the targeting? Frankly, I see a need for a Black Student Union on college campuses because there are many problems in their community to address: namely how when Black students graduate they're likely to make hundreds of thousands less than most other Americans. This is bad for everyone, from what I've learned. I chartered an organization when I was in college, it's generally an intensive review process. Many organizations don't make the cut. Saying you want to start one because there's another one like it isn't a mission statement. Townson is an institution that cannot allow students to go around saying whatever they want seemingly just to make a point.

White Student Unions and the like are the premier opportunity to amplify what's wrong with American higher education. More purposeless crap wasting funds. Look, all student groups should serve some purpose at facing an problem. They're like nonprofits. Even chess clubs face the problem of getting better at chess. This WSU crap is pointless. Minority student unions deal with not only racism, but promoting art, culture, etc where it's not readily accessible, at Super-American U. These losers need to stop trying to make a point. Especially, when making a point is at the expense school funds, which has already happened with the poor folks who had to review their charter.

How about that it has become culturally acceptable to demonize the white population, making them feel bad for events they should not be responsible for. I am a hispanic individual, so I am not affected by this. Why should today's student be made to feel responsible for slavery, colonization, imperialism etc. First, if your parents committed a murder and you were innocent, should you go to jail? No. Why, because their actions were independent of yours. Second, the events that occurred in history need to be in the context and views of the day, not from those of the present. Second, in many educational institutions, students are taught that the big bad world powers took land away heartlessly and killed the natives. Though it is true to some extent, let us not forget that without such actions there would be no USA or hispanic community. As I hispanic, I am the byproduct of intermixing and colonization. Without colonization or imperialism many of us would not be born as different circumstances might have dictated different lives for our parents. I do not support present day imperialism, but I do not vehemently oppose imperialism and colonization from the past. We are our past. I feel many of my black and latino colleagues play the race card too much, as if wanting to use it for a simple excuse of why they are where they are. No one says anything about Jesse Jackson's or Black Panther's hate. Why the double standard?

These types of things always have a good base argument, namely that white people have a social barrier that prevents them from gathering and organizing to promote their own needs. While that is true, they always taint their point of view by talking about stupid crap like radical leftists, prison riots, anti multiculturalism, and the dangers of diversity.

Just state your case, don't say clearly racist stuff in your group, and the stigma may fade one day. Until then, these groups will rightly be viewed as racist.

First of all where did I say it was wrong? Second it strange to see a white person feeling and acting like a minority. How do you like the change? Are you frightened? Do you feel pressure? Do you feel you might be abused. DO YOU FEEL LIKE YOU ARE BEING WATCHED??? That is all to bad! If you treated people equally and fair as a people, just maybe the fear might not be taking over your life?

I must say that when segregation was declared unconstitutional, I thought nothing was to be declared open to only one race. That is why I was disappointed in the formation of a Black Miss America. The White Miss America was opened to all races, in fact a very pretty black girl, Vanessa Williams, won it. So if we are going to forget about the law, let everyone form any segregated organization they want to.

White people are ignorant if they want to talk about their rights in the countries their forefathers founded? Do you think its right that white countries and only white countries are being forced to take in millions of non-white immigrants in the name of diversity and becoming minorities in their lands when NOT ONE OF THEM EVER GOT A CHANCE TO VOTE ON THIS POLICY. I dont remember anyone ever asking European Americans if they agreed with our current immigration policy, until 1965 the immigration policy was designed to keep the United States primarily of white European descent. Since when have we ever consented to becoming minorities to Mexicans, Hatians, Cubans, Guatemalans, Africans etc? There has never been a vote on this policy, this is thievery and we won't stand for it anymore.

I don't remember the Pilgrims asking Native Americans if it was okay to displace their people and effectively kill their cultures, of which there were dozens. White people in the United States are not disenfranchised or in need a "group" to protect and guard their rights. Besides, the United States was founded as a refuge for immigrants—"Give me your tired, your poor, Your huddled masses yearning to breathe free, The wretched refuse of your teeming shore. Send these, the homeless, tempest-tost to me, I lift my lamp beside the golden door!" With those words affixed to the Statue of Liberty, we—the nation—consented, and we're better for it.

I'm not sure that a white student union is a problem. What I see as a problem is a white student union that has white supremacists coming in to support them. I'd have the same problem if there were a Muslim student union that had the Taliban coming in to support them.

So, it would appear to me that this particular white student union (should it move forward and actually form) would be less interested in western culture than it would be in promoting racism.

There's no nice way to put it. It appears to be a front for white racists. We have enough problems in this country, do we really need to add this to them?

Border patrol agents DEFENDING the Sovereignty of this country being pelted with rocks by people, being shot at and killed. Illegal people in this country demanding things when they have no legal standing here. Preach your hatred and la raza crap somewhere else. Your country sold California but you deny it and now you want it back. Your illegal friends have been raping and destroying America for too long. Not all illegal aliens coming into America are criminals but Mexico is helping the criminals by giving them a hand in how to reach America illegally. If you hate America so much then one word, MOVE

White kids like Heimbach are demonized by blacks (and sometimes other races) on the basis of a history they had absolutely zero part of.

As a fair, blue-eyed girl, I was picked on constantly growing up. Fish eyes, Casper, Inbred, Cracker... the names went on for days. If I complained to the school, it was considered bullying. No one ever considered what happened to me and many others racist. It was never addressed.

Pick on a person for no reason and eventually they will learn to fight back. Expect to see more of this.

How about that instead of a "White Student Union" those students start up an European Heritage Union? I've seen clubs for students of Italian, Scottish, French, Norwegian, Russian, etc. descent. There is nothing wrong with celebrating your roots. Seems that many White Americans disregard their ancestral past, which I think is very important. I have friends that still have family in Europe and they have a connection with those family members. What I have found is that they tend to be more open to other groups, because they don't feel their identity is threatened. Their cultural identity is deeply rooted. I don't feel the same about the term "White".

Black organisations would have to follow the same format.

Black Americans are not a homogeneous group.

Their ancestors came from a number of different tribes in what would be different countries in west Africa today, plus they used to speak a range of different languages.

The issue is further complicated for what is considered "black" for many in the USA is actually Mulatto, Mixed Race or Coloured in other societies.

Black Americans are thus English speakers of west African decent who have assimilated and adopted white western culture.

They have become divorced from their ethnic roots, cultures and traditions whereas whites have maintained theirs in the new nation they created - the USA.

I have a feeling that many people of African decent would love to have some connection to the 'Mother Land'. Yeah, you can say that many African-Americans can say that they may have come from one of many nations off the West Coast of Africa, but there is something about being trapped like an animal and brought over on a slave ship under harrowing conditions. Plus, they didn't have passports to stamp. Also there are few records, because those brought over were considered cattle. Few church records, too. Don't forget that many of the ancestors may be of mixed race because the female slave's owner would use them at his leisure and considered their off-spring additional workers/property. Also, last names mean nothing, since the name would change according to the slave owners. This is why those of African descent tend to be grouped under the term "Black". Now there are people like Obama whose father was from Africa. He still has family there and can say "I'm a person of English and Kenyan decent". Few African-Americans can make a claim like that.

The liberal media is trying to brainwash white people into accepting this absurd notion.

Fortunately race realists are not that dumb.

They do not subscribe to:

"There is no such thing as race. Race is a human construct"

They are proud of what they are and respect the rights of others to be proud of what they are.

We can learn from the animal kingdom - dogs for example

Who is foolish enough to believe what they can see with their own eyes that dogs are supposedly all the same - e.g. a Dachshund is identical in every way to a St Bernard?

Likewise a fair skinned, blonde haired, blue eyed Swede is totally different from a black Australian Aboriginal.

Are Whites the only race celebrating diversity as they become minorities in their own societies?

No other race would celebrate diversity if they were becoming a minority in their own society.

Why are Whites celebrating their own ethnic cleansing? (Paying taxes to allow their own society to become flooded with non-Whites is a form of self-cleansing). Hitler cleansed other races, but White Liberals are helping their OWN RACE become a minority!

The financial burden of non-White immigration, AND constant wars, PLUS feminism is causing Whites to have less kids.

Whites are paying to become a minority in a country founded and built by Whites. This must be a sickness.

Why are Whites allowing themselves to become minorities in their own societies?

Are non-Whites are taking advantage of Whites weakness of being too generous?

Non-Whites have a strong racial consciousness. They put their own racial interests first. White Liberals don't. White Liberals hate on White Conservatives, but other races stick together. Have White Liberals lost their racial consciousness?

Asia for Asians. Africa for Africans. White countries for everyone?

Will the USA still be a first world country when Whites become a minority?

"and those Europeans murdered most of them off."

Can you provide some comparative statistics to support your claim?

In as you say the USA does not belong to the whites/Europeans it certainly does not belong to the black Americans either. History tells us they were brought to the USA by the white man.

If as you say the white colonists / settlers / immigrants were so brutal and evil, why is it that black Africans are trying to get into the countries that they have created - The USA, Canada, all the countries of Europe, South Africa and Australia?

If you go back in history far enough you will probably find that the First Nations / North American Indians are not the original inhabitants of the continent either. More than likely they pushed weaker people aside to establish their own communities.

I recently watched a video on this site of a debate between the guy who wants to create this group and several others. One commentator claimed that Whiteness, as a concept, developed from the point of racism. He said that the various European ethnic groups who came here (Irish, Italian etc...) gave up their individual national/ethnic identities in order to become "White", which was a new identity built in opposition to all other races. Let's assume for a moment that this view is correct. If racism was the basis of this new identity, what happens if/when racism has been done away with or reduced to the point of irrelevancy? What happens to Whites if the basis for their identity is eliminated? It's too late to go back to the various ethnic identities their ancestors came here with. If racism was the original basis for "Whiteness", and racism is eliminated, what identity are Whites allowed to have? How can Whites build a new identity if they keep getting punished for the previous one? How do Whites survive in a world where everyone but them has a socially-acceptable identity? How can Whites define themselves in a new world when everyone else keeps trying to identify them based on the old world?

I'm not saying that I agree with your point, but even if I did, I still would not go along with it unless I had a firm indication that everyone else would as well. There is strength in numbers, so the race that abandons itself without demanding the same from the others is committing suicide. I'll make a deal with you... Go speak with the other races, get them to swear that they are willing to give up racial-politics, have them show clear-cut examples of how they are willing to honor their agreement, (as Whites did by supporting Obama, the Civil Rights Movement, and so many other minority-rights movements), and then we'll talk. Until then, there can be no discussion of disarming racial-consciousness.

That is a good summation of how things currently stand. There is one rule for Whites and another rule for everyone else. When you are White, you are guilty of racism until proven innocent. When you are not White, you are a victim of White Racism until proven otherwise, though, the only people arguing against your status as a victim will be considered, invariably, to be Whites who have yet to prove they aren't racist, and these lawyers for our case will find themselves on the witness-stand trying to fight off charges of racism. How amazing would it be if Whites stopped cowering down every time someone called them a racist? Imagine the looks on the faces of our enemies. They'd be like soldiers in battle who suddenly realize they were issued blanks instead of real ammo.

Harold Bloom, in his 1990s bestseller "Western Canon", was right. He named all these cultural Marxists, angry feminists, multiculturalists, ..."The School of Resentment". He aimed at dumbing down English Department curricula, but the term can be very appropriately applied to anti- white European racial hucksters & dogmatist lefty demagogues.

Yes, my friends, white are Aeschylus, Pythagoras, Plato, Aquinas, Calvin, Newton, Pasteur, Shakespeare, Dante, Voltaire, Bach, Beethoven, Cervantes, Dostoevsky, Nietzsche, Whitman, Faulkner, Wittgenstein, Heidegger, Heisenberg, Proust,.... And I doubt they are much discussed at Hispanic, black or Asian student clubs.

The basic theme I'm hearing from most people who oppose groups like this is that Whites just can't be trusted to organize as a group without it leading to discrimination against others. This is based on the stereotype that Whites are inherently racist. I'm not saying that stereotypes are always false, I personally believe that they're usually at least somewhat based on reality, even if they become gross exaggerations. I just think we need to admit that this is a stereotype, and it has lead to fairly blatant prejudice and discrimination, which this story illustrates. It is no different than when White residents of an upscale neighborhood or town try to stop the construction of government apartments because they fear that it will attract Blacks, who they stereotype as being criminal. It's no different than when people try to block the construction of a Mosque because of stereotypes about Muslims being terrorists. This group is being decried because its opponents hold to the stereotype that Whites are inherently racist and, therefore, can't be allowed to assemble in any way that acknowledges their race. This is the same reason the "Tea Party" has faced criticism for being "too White." It seems like a lot of people have this instinctual fear of large groups of Whites, not at all dissimilar to fears that many Whites have when they see a large group of young Black males.

CDAH: The basic theme I'm hearing from most people who oppose

I was asked a question earlier in this discussion that I think is very relevant. I was asked what rights Whites have lost. There are two types of rights that people have; Legal rights and basic rights. Legal rights are what we commit to paper, basic rights are the underlying principles that inspire the written ones. Before someone can gain a legal right, the basic one must first be there, and conversely, the basic right must be removed before the legal one can be taken away. Essentially, Whites have lost the basic right to be White, as this article makes clear. Whites are not allowed to do what every other group is encouraged to do, which is to organize in support of issues that matter to them as a group without facing blatant hostility from people and institutions. They might not be legally prohibited, (at the moment), but legal discrimination usually follows basic discrimination. If members of a community stopped the building of a synagogue by threatening to boycott any construction company that worked on it, and to ostracise any individual they employ, would that not be discrimination, even if it wasn't done at the government level? Would Jews be wrong to feel like their right to freely practice their religion was being taken away, even if it wasn't the government doing it? That's the type of discrimination that Whites face, and it will only get worse.

CDAH: I was asked a question earlier in this discussion that

This is why our education systems are a joke. You should be proud to have taught an autonomous, independent thinking young man who is bravely sticking up for his up-PC, un-Marxist thoughts, which go against the liberal dogmas. Whites are being stripped of their rights within a matter of a couple decades. He is seeing the trend and wants to bring awareness to it. Of course you are ashamed he is white and proud. Are you a teacher of critical race theory by chance? African-American and Hip Hop studies? Sociology? You sure sound like it.

I think the disconnect here is that I don't see white people losing their rights. The difference now is that minorities have been gaining rights and power.

Also minority college organizations are about supporting people who are underrepresented in their field and to experience a certain culture. White Americans don't need a club to do either of those things.

Keep thinking that. The world wide agenda of destroying formerly white countries is backfiring. We are indeed becoming the minority, just like the globalists want. Now that we are by far a worldwide majority and are set to be in white homelands in a matter of a couple decades, the whole minority/majority thing doesn't work so well. But there will still be cries of white privilege I'm sure, they already edited their definitions of 'minority' and 'majority' to fit with the declining white demographics. Now it just means 'who has the power.' "Hilarious"

I'll boil this down to what I believe the most basic points are.

1.) Whether or not someone thinks it's right to form a group like this, the students involved still have the right to do it. If the school allows a Black Student Union, Hispanic Student Union or any other racially/ethnically based organization, they can't deny Whites the same.

2.) Everyone is entitled to an opinion on anything, but there are instances where only some people are entitled to a say. A Japanese citizen is entitled to an opinion about the U.S. Election, but only Americans get to vote on it. Similarly, every person, regardless of race/ethnicity, is entitled to an opinion about whether or not Whites are a distinct group with distinct interests, but only Whites get to choose. If we decide that we are a distinct group, and if we decide that we should organize and advocate for our perceived interests, that is our decision. We don't have to explain ourselves to anyone else, and we certainly don't need anybody else's permission to be who we are.

OK. Before I start, I can't say they are white supremacists. However, when one hears "white pride" used, people get the wrong idea based on previous actions by some folks who don't necessarily say kind things about minorities. Before you excoriate me, there are some black folks who do the same thing.

Now, humor me for a minute. I am going to make the assumption that you are a white male. and you attend the University of Georgia, Athens. Good school. Hunker down hairy dog. However, the school is 68% African American, and as a way of organizing your voice, you establish a White Students Union. In response, the majority form a Black Students Union.

Does that make any sense to you? What purpose does the Black Students Union have? It's not like they are a minority on the campus. It's not like their voices are not heard! They're the majority! It sounds like a ploy to silence those they don't like.

Would you make the same argument if a group of white students wanted to form a White Student Union at Howard University, or to keep the state school analogy going, Savannah State University (HBCU) or the University of Maryland, Eastern Shore? Would it be OK for those schools to form a Black Students Union in response to the minority student population's forming a support group?

(I apologize in advance for writing so much. prepping for class, and I have to get in presentation mode...)

This guy sounds like a provocateur but it seems "student unions" based on race or ethnicity are pretty common these days. Here's a partial list from Rutgers University.

Bengali Student Association

Black Student Union

Coptic Society

Haitian Association

Japanese Cultural Association

Jewish Student Union

Latino Student Council

Pakistani Student Association

There is no "White Student Assoc." at Rutgers.

With all the white supremacists in Congress such as Loy Mauch, Jon Hubbard, Todd Atkins, Michelle Bachmann, Tom McMillin, Roger Rivard, Quico Canseco, Jeff Flake clearly this new club for celebrating white supremacy is not a coincidence.

I didn't say they didn't have a right.

I did say its no coincidence that the tea baggers get into office screaming jobs, jobs, jobs but only vote on bills that curb women's rights and, interestingly enough, voter rights.

The 'club' in the article may not have used the word supremacist as I have, but then I use words like "torture", not "enhanced interrogation".

Changing the language doesn't change the meaning.

As a recent alum of Towson University (Class of 2011) this really makes me disappointed. I am a white male who participated in a Greek organization and was a one time Senator on the Student Government Association. Therefore, it is extremely important to know that one of the many bylaws state by the SGA is the fact that every student group that wants to be recognized on campus MUST have a faculty advisor. Currently, no faculty on member has come forward to do so and that automatically rules them out from even trying to be recognized. Secondly, the group has ties to white supremacist organizations and thoughts, just evidenced by the YWC, Mr. Taylor and Mr Heimbach. It should not be allowed to be on there and it ashes me that a school I love and think fondly would allow this, even though I understand it is "free speech."

I think Mr. Heimbach is a racist and has evidenced through his words on the podcast above and he cannot even speak to what "White History" is or will be advancing on campus. It's wrong and the simple fact it is wrong is due to the ties to white supremacy!

When Forest Gump said, "Stupid is as stupid does", it really applies to white supremacists. Why? It's not that white supremacists as human beings are stupid. No, what makes them inferior is, as Forest said, what they do. And what they do is so devoid of any logic or solid reasoning, they can only appeal to emotions like fear, anger and jealousy. That they rely upon base emotions instead of intelligence and reason is enough to cause any university to ban them from the campus.

The same goes for black supremacists, or hispanic supremacists, or Japanese supremacists... It just so happens, unfortunately, that white supremacists have been making the longest and strongest effort to establish themselves in America, a society that really has no time for them any more.

Reasoning for wanting to preserve white societies? We have lots. This isn't about emotion and impulse, that is how liberals rule their lives. White societies are places where you are allowed to practice free speech. We have first-world accommodations. We have the best education systems in the world. (Even Asians flock to the US for college) We have SAFE communities where you aren't afraid to walk outside. We have clean streets, wonderful infrastructure, the quality of life in white societies is great. When you start changing the racial admixture by large quantities, that quality of life goes downhill. White people are told we have no culture? REALLY? Classical music, theater, art, music, various ethnic foods, etc. Some white people cherish the endangered white society and just how civil it is.

We don't know that. Every time blacks congregate, it is said that we're up to no good or segregating ourselves. We're more equipped to deal with those sort of problems today. Just think how hard it was for our fore-fathers. There were no protections and very few rights. I'm more worried about the problems we're having getting through this election. I may be wrong, but it's how I feel.

The reason that there is a "black" ethnicity is because it has been mandated, legislated, and reinforced by whites for over 400 years in this country! There is no "black" ethnicity -- just like there is no Asian or Hispanic ethnicity. These are just "short hand" terms that lump people together. Our ethnic heritages are more closely tied to our nationalities -- and even then, there are ethnicities within nations! African Americans, descendants of slaves, are unique in that nearly everyone's nationality and ethnic heritage was lost during the slave trade. So there are 35 million plus people whose only historical / ethnic reference is "Africa." The other "blacks" that are traditionally lumped together with African Americans due to common physical features include black Haitians, Brazilians, Puerto Ricans, Nigerians, Ghanians, Kenyans, Somalians, etc. People from each of these countries have their own unique ethnic heritage -- history, language, music, food ... they are Haitian Americans, Brazilian Americans, Nigerian Americans, Kenyan Americans ... just as we have Irish Americans, German Americans, Chinese Americans, Indian Americans and Native Americans. These are simply facts. Wants some more facts? You may want to learn more about the concept of "race" in general. <http://www.aaanet.org/resources/a-public-education-program.cfm> FINALLY, would somebody define "political correctness" for me -- because I'm not sure what Kaaper means by that!

So there is no such thing as a white ethnic group when it's time to make a club for White Americans, but in hiring practices with government jobs, or admission to colleges, white people magically exist again too. When whites are sought out and attacked by blacks in interracial violence, suddenly the black criminals are able to identify this mystical racial construct known as whites. However blacks are always recognized as a general ethnic group. Don't get me started on Hispanic...that could mean anything, any race. Yet they are referred to as a single ethnic group. White people are a group, we do have a culture, you are LIVING in white culture.

The fact that white fathers would remain married and be good fathers to their children rather than abandon their families. Why do whites who feel threatened by minority solidarity attempt to use the minority's position to defend their own biases. For instance, his first anti-multiculturalism group didn't work, so now he resorts to the formation of a White Student Union, because there is a Black Student Union.

Why not form a group based on a mission that makes sense to his platform instead of insulting minority groups by mimicking them to promote radical political agendas, such as White Students United. When blacks couldn't join white fraternities and sororities they started their own, without focusing on their white counterparts. Similarly, when blacks were not integrated into institutions of higher learning, they formed their own educational institutions (e.g., Tuskegee Institute), without the mimicking and the constant reference to other's who offended them.

Why is this impossible now? Start your white only club, but leave the minorities out of your genesis. And more importantly, start your club and focus on the issues of the white race, leave the issues of interracial crime to the police. This club is a racially charged, and any university who supports his behavior, should expect an all out protest on his campus.

Let's face it, they're not creating this student union out of a true need, they're creating it as a political statement on the formation of minority-based groups. History has show us that such congregations of whites where they are already in power and the majority tend to be based on nefarious ideas.

If they can keep from being racist and use their association to promote tolerance and a color-blind society, there's nothing wrong here. If the group does form, I would encourage enlightened whites and blacks to join and be heard, but be careful of becoming brainwashed themselves, which could all too easily happen. Know yourself before joining and have a plan to form an enlightened caucus within the group if necessary. Be ready for attacks for your membership, too.

Why can't white people be proud of who they are, just as other races have the ability to be proud of who they are. It does not mean that hate of other groups should be tolerated but issues that effect their particular race and how to deal with them, overcome and educate people about them. With the very real history of oppression this kind of action is inflammatory. It's no different than those who show the stars and bars confederate flag. That was a symbol of oppression during the Jim-Crow era and during slavery. Now for people to claim it's "southern heritage" is a bit disingenous. They are doing it to show a message. The same goes for white nationalist groups. These were the same groups that vigorously opposed integration and openly subverted the civil rights of blacks during the civil rights era. I am sure this guy and anyone who supports this group are anti-immigrant (especially non-white), anti-gay and would love for African-Americans to self-deport back to Africa.

He's doing it for ALL the wrong reasons. Black Student Unions aren't some Black Panther movement, it just brings those of us who look the same closer together. I was the President of my Central Black Student Union, where we governed the 7 other Black Student Unions in our college, but rest assured, our student union acted as a source for all minority organizations to disseminate information amongst one another. Go ahead, have a White Student Union, but he should be prepared to work with and network with other student unions and minority groups, instead of making this seem like some white privilege group.

If you do it right...come thinking that you will add to the diversity (though, I'm sure this college is majority white), and include. None, and I mean NONE of our predominantly African-American organizations are exclusive. We are completely inclusive, but those who argue otherwise, just don't care to find out. Until American history really includes African-American history in it, and not just a month where schools can opt out of celebrating our history as well, it's necessary for us to have organizations that make us feel at home, and we certainly invite those who don't look like us to come out, and find out what it is that we do. If you want a list of a few of our organizations, I'd be happy to oblige.

I don't have an issue with any race or religion wanting to have they're own little thing, but the problem is when those groups believe they are above and beyond others,, which often happens.

Groups need to be more focused on working together for common causes instead of exhibiting the separatist mentality that so many display.

The same can be said about how people label themselves with hyphenated titles in a time where collective ideas make the most sense for are future of what really matters,, the state of our great nation.

First off, all white people clearly do not see themselves as all being the same.

The Germans during WWII made it very clear they they did not believe that all white people were related or created equally..

Some white folks are a little too dark, hair not blond enough, eyes not blue, nose not perfect, don't fit the description of white purity. Look at tv, magazines. White folks push a standard of white beauty on each other that is impossible for many ethnic looking whites to ever achieve.

Let the white student union form...they will be calling each other derogatory ethnic names and asking each other for family records to verify their blood lines before the year is up.

Why ? Euro-Americans are already so mixed that their identity is both white European and American, plus any mixture (Swedish, Polish, Scottish,..). Why is anybody offended by term "White" ? And not offended by "Black" ? Also, there are white Americans who are not entirely of European ancestry- say, partly Lebanese, or Argentinian-Americans who are white & do not have strong Hispanic identity.

So, the proper adjective is "white", more than "European", let alone "Northern European" etc.

There's going to be a lot more of us where that came from. "Every ethnic group has its own advocacy group but white students don't," Matthew Heimbach, a senior studying U.S. history at Towson, told The Huffington Post.

White students don't need an advocacy group, they have 'white privilege'. And he's studying US history??? Looks like he needs to study harder. He appears to have missed the whole Jim Crow and Civil Rights era.

Hey, what kind of name is 'Heimbach' anyway, Jewish or German? ;)

Discrimination is 50 yrs in the past? WRONG !!! It is STILL affecting people today. You're apparently just unaware of it because it doesn't affect YOU.

"How come blacks had a lower out-of-wedlock birthrate and higher educational achievement during segregation?"

Answer: That's because BACK THEN the fabric of the family structure was still cohesive. The negative effects of living in poverty hadn't yet begun to take its toll on them. Black people (in the inner-cities) are doing worse NOW because they've been trapped in generational cycles of poverty as a result of socioeconomic segregation.

POVERTY = CRIME + DRUGS / disintegration of family structure and communities

FYI: All the negative things you see and hear in the news, etc., is about the poverty-stricken black people in the inner-cities. It doesn't apply to ALL black people...

Why did so many blacks show up? Imagine 99% white people showing up to a black student union lecture? All they want is conflict. It's like they think they somehow appease their ancestors and liberate them by sticking it to the white people today. They are allowed to be way more aggressive and get away with things, and they know it. They see it as rubbing it in white people's faces because they have free speech and we don't. Being white in 2012 is like being black in 1960 minus the fire hoses and dogs. Socially, it's reversed.

The white male is the most discriminated against person in 2012. The absolute abomination of men by the media, feminists, and justice department is one totally separate thing. But on top of that, being white today is a curse. It means you must walk on eggshells if there is 1 non-white person around you. It means you are blamed for things that literally happened 300 years ago completely out of your control. It means you must live in fear of non-whites who are allowed to be much more aggressive and get away with it. It means you must pretend to hate your race to be politically correct. It means you cannot take credit for any accomplishments in the past without being a supremacist. It means you are seen as coddled and spoiled just for not wanting to live next to black people. It means people view your ancestors as slave holders even though they were in Europe at that time. It means having to bend over and take it each and everyday without fighting back. It means you must embrace non-whites into your communities and celebrate your annihilation.

The insanely negative reaction this proposed union has received proves a white student union is needed. If there was white privilege and so much white dominance as non-whites claim, then the group would be passed asap without as much as a whisper. White people are the only race that is held accountable for things their ancestors did 300 years ago. The overwhelming majority of whites today didn't even have ancestors in the US until 1930 ish. They were in Italy, Ireland, Germany, etc. when blacks were in America as slaves. It is MADDENING to suggest that we had ANYTHING to do with it. It's the same concept as blaming an unborn baby for a murder his father committed. It makes ZERO sense. Whites are the only race that constantly has its history brought up to showcase negativity and brutality. EVERY race has been insanely brutal over the course of history. Many white people are waking up and are tired of all this anti-white BS. By the way, I would consider myself a Liberal.

I'm not sure you're understanding why there is a negative reaction to this. Conceptually, a White student union is a fine idea. There is nothing wrong with being proud of one's ethnic identity. However, do you know why black student unions and groups were formed to begin with? When you're faced with unrelenting institutional discrimination and racism, it helps to unify. The white privilege you addressed in your post has to do with not having these historical hardships. In the United States, groups that limited membership to being ethnically white don't exactly have the most positive historical record. There is a negative (if not threatening) implication that these groups are not focused on helping their members and advancing themselves despite adversity, but instead the incentive is to isolate themselves from other "inferior" people. I'm not saying these students have this incentive at all, but the implication is there and due to our history, is relatively unavoidable. I hope this makes sense.

"groups that limited membership to being ethnically white don't exactly have the most positive historical record. "

Sure they do. A century ago, nearly all groups were "whites only". This included most charity and aid organizations. These indeed had a very positive historical record. Very few "whites only" groups did anything negative to blacks at all.

"I'm not saying these students have this incentive at all, but the implication is there and due to our history, is relatively unavoidable."

It's only unavoidable because that's the way you've been taught to think. In reality, no group has ever done as much good for blacks as white people. If you acknowledged that, you wouldn't have to worry about it at all.

If being black in America is so horrible, why not move to China or the Middle East? Because you know it would be much, much worse. Whites treat blacks better than blacks treat blacks. Look at black-black violence vs. white-black violence. The only discrimination that exists in this country anymore is against White Heterosexual Christian Men.

Why is it that non-white people seem to think they know what it's like to be a young white person in this country? I would love it if there was a more unified white population with shared interests and a love of our rich cultural heritage. However, we are vilified today, for "sins" of our ancestors. The comments displayed here, mostly by anti-white WHITE people are exactly why there is such a niche for a White Student Union.

By the way, as a Maryland native, and white person, I have never been the majority where I grew up in Prince George's County. I have always been the minority where I live. This is the case with most people under 24 in this country. The vast number of public schools in US metro areas have a non-white majority. The average public school in Maryland is 35% white.

It's not about being vilified for the sins of the ancestors. The outcry is about the socioeconomic discrimination for the 150 yrs POST slavery that still continues TODAY. Like the fact that the majority of blacks live in the poverty stricken inner-cities, in generational cycles of poverty when they only make up 12% of the US population. You may have been in the minority where YOU lived. However, the majority of people living in the suburbs are white. It's all about "socioeconomic segregation". I'm sure the average inner-city public school in Baltimore is less than 35% white.

"I would love it if there was a more unified white population with shared interests and a love of our rich cultural heritage."

Isn't that what country clubs are for? ;) Seriously though, I'm not coming down on you personally. There are plenty of clubs and hyphenated American societies to celebrate their European heritage: Irish-American, Italian-American, etc. Just use google and pick one....

Back in 1965, when the United States was 85% white, I could understand the strong reservations that white ethno-political activism causes. Equally, I could support the ethno-political activism among minorities, such as Hispanics and African-Americans. After-all, if you are the overwhelming majority you can afford to pursue the "greater good" and support the aspirations of other groups, even if they may be contrary to your group interests.

But, fast forward to 2012, where white are a minority in many cities (comprising only 28% of LA) and are no longer the majority in several states (such as CA where they make up 40% of the population), the deep seated taboo against any form of white ethno-political activism makes very little sense. This is especially true in CA, where Latino, Black and Asian legislative caucuses unabashedly pursue their group interests, even in municipalities where they form the majority. So, why should whites not do the same in the said localities?

Either we can promote a political culture in which all INDIVIDUALS pursue their vision of the greater good (such as environmentalism) or we can continue the development of a system, in which all ethnic GROUPS (including whites) unabashedly pursue their narrow GROUP interests. You cannot simultaneously foster the growth of 101 other ethno-political groups, such as La Raza, while insisting that whites pursue the "greater good" rather than what they deem to be the interest of their group.

Some critics of this organization point out that there is no reason for a majority population to organize ethno-identity advocacy group, particularly because such groups run the risk of becoming hostile to minority populations. For the sake of the discussion, let's accept this premise. So the questions that arises: Should we be equally wary when (let's say) Hispanic-Americans, African-Americans and Asian-Americans pursue ethno-political advocacy in the growing numbers of towns and cities in which they form the majority? And in areas like Los Angeles, where European-Americans are a minority, is it OK for them to promote their perceived group interests?

I don't see what the problem is, unless they are turning it into a hate filled group. I don't see why white folks create situations like this to prove a point anyway... They should be happy they don't have to put a lable on thier ish. Mad about BET, mad about Black History Month... if I can turn on the Television to any given channel and find all races of people, but we cant. If Black History was being taught all through out school as part as American History then black folks wouldn't need to create groups. It's never an issue until you're not the center of attention, then you take notice....

The problem is that there is no clear-cut end-date for when non-Whites will stop their demands for special privileges/recognition. Whites are projected to become a minority by mid-century, yet, I seriously doubt that groups like the NAACP or La Raza will disband once that happens, nor do I think that BET or other race-based television networks will voluntarily quit. I honestly believe that we are entering a period in history where America will break apart along racial lines. Once Whites are reduced to a minority, non-Whites aren't going to set aside their racial-politics and join the new multicultural utopia, they're going to keep pushing for increasingly larger pieces of the national pie, regardless of if they're entitled to it or not. The only logical outcome is that Whites will have to join the racial/ethnic fight, they'll have to push their own racial/ethnic interests, and we will finally become what Teddy Roosevelt warned us about, a "tangle of squabbling nationalities, an intricate knot of German-Americans, Irish-Americans, English-Americans, French-Americans, Scandinavian-Americans or Italian-Americans, each preserving its separate nationality, each at heart feeling more sympathy with Europeans of that nationality, than with the other citizens of the American Republic." In his day, he could never have saw where what we have become today, but the principle still applies. Welcome to the new-America, a.k.a. (The Balkans of the New World.)

When this topic is no longer and issue, than non-whites will stop their demands and expect privilages that we should automatically receive. I would love to go about my every day life without wondering, "was it because I'm black", regardless if I speak it aloud, the d@mn thought will always be there. Assuming you're non black. How does it feel? How does it feel to take being white for granted? (sorry, that's the only way I could put it). Why does one have to be the "minority" to want to join a group with other like minded people? There is quite a large segment of the young white population who are done with being told they are privileged, done with being politically correct, and done believing the propaganda that their hard work, intelligence and drive was just a matter of circumstances. Whites are told nonstop how racist they are, how evil our ancestors are, how oppressive whites are. Maybe, just maybe there are white people who want to be around other whites or are not hostile to their existence. I mean I am a young white male and I am deeply saddened that EVERY country with a white majority is being flooded with non-white immigrants by the millions each year. I am talking about indigenous people of Europe being replaced by foreigners. There are millions who share my concerns, the problem with "PC" (political correctness is only applied to white thoughts) is that whites are too scared to voice their opinion.

I went to a Historically Black University in the south during the 1990s. Like all public HBCU's, it was founded by the state during the early 20th century when all schools, including colleges, were segregated. During the '60s and '70s, they were ordered to desegregate like all other schools. They are now just colleges, not black colleges, but are called HBCU's due to their pre desegregation traditional population. Now, the ratio of the school majority (black) to minority students is similar to most all universities in America, such as Towson's majority (white) to minority identified students there. My school still offers significant financial incentives to non black students to comply with desegregation mandates. So to say that only historically white colleges and universities were affected by desegregation is false.

During my time, I was on the SGA and one of the campus organizations was the minority student organization. It was founded by the white students on campus. No one had a problem with the organization. Their goal was to gain a unified voice with the majority on campus, which happened to be black students. They wanted to make sure their interests were represented as well. Huge difference than trying to prove how much you have been slighted by minorities. If that group at Towson is truly trying to make sure they are represented and are maintaining their cultural identity then OK, but if they are trying to insulate themselves and marginalize everyone else, then that's suspect.

If we Whites, at over 60% of the U.S. Population, can't even start our own student union, the problem is not with other groups, it rests squarely on our shoulders. We are our own greatest enemy. The White Rights Movement has failed to find a message that resonates with our people, and the blame for that is ours. Granted, the media is against us, and the people who control most of it are "White but not quite", however, if we had an effective message, it wouldn't matter what the media or any other small minority says. Perhaps we need to become a minority. Perhaps we need to lose our empire. I suppose we may have just been a child-king that wasn't mature enough to rule the world. Maybe some time in the wilderness is what we need to discover just exactly who and what we are.

Allowed??? That's our problem as Whites... We keep acting like we need someone else to give us permission to pursue our interests. If Blacks had waited on Whites to give them the go-ahead on civil rights, they'd still be drinking from separate water fountains. We need to grow a pair and stop acting like it's somebody else's fault that we can't organize in support of the issues that matter to us. This group may have encountered detractors, they might have trouble finding a sponsor, but as far as I can tell, if they and other Whites marched down the street in support of their rights, the cops wouldn't release the dogs or turn the water hoses on them. Blacks didn't get their rights on a silver platter and neither will we.

Funny reading comments about "white privilege." Yes, whites established the United States of America and have been the majority population the entire time, it would fall in line with the resources of this nation. Minorities love to talk that talk about whites but the only countries they want to live in are countries founded and built by whites! In my opinion white people need to wake up and start taking stances to retain their majority in the United States, as I dont remember ever taking part in a vote where I said I was ok becoming a minority in the land my forefathers built.

Very true. Complaining about "White Privilege" in a country that was created almost entirely by Whites would be like going over to your good buddy John Smith's house and complaining that he and his family own everything there because of "Smith Privilege." Then, when he and his family scoff at your accusation, you respond by calling them all a bunch of familyists.

This is very simple to resolve.

If there is a 'black student union', and it is recognized by the school, they have no legal grounds to deny the request, as the precedent of racially orientated student groups will have already been set. Denying the request would open the door to a racial discrimination suit.

So, there are two options.

Either approve the request, or eliminate recognition for any and all racially orientated groups on campus.

The fact that this guy is having such a hard time starting this organization is proof of why it's needed. If Blacks had never been oppressed in America, groups advocating for them would have never had to meet in secret locations at the beginning. If Blacks had never been oppressed, Rosa Parks would not be known today because she would never have been asked to give up her seat. I'm not in any way saying that Whites face that level of oppression, or anywhere even remotely close to it, but it still does illustrate my point, albeit in an extreme way. If Whites didn't experience any collective hostility from other groups, why is this a story? Why did his organization have to pay over $1,000 for security? If Whites, as the current majority group, face so much resistance to forming the same type of group that other racial/ethnic groups are encouraged to have, how much harder will it be when we're a minority by mid-century? Do we really want to wait and see?

In the Bible it says: "and they shall beat their swords into plowshares, and their spears into pruninghooks: nation shall not lift up sword against nation, neither shall they learn war any more."

But Benjamin Franklin wisely said: "He who beats his sword into a plowshare ends up plowing for those who kept their swords."

Whites have unilaterally disarmed. We have abandoned group solidarity without demanding the same from others.

Your last two sentences are spot on and most whites do not understand this dilemma. We are the only race that has disarmed while all the other races continue to advance their interests at our expense. On top of that we have a birthright to our nations that our forefathers built, we do not owe our nations to any other types of people. How has it become virtuous for the white man to step aside and become minorities in the countries their fathers built? It makes no sense, who has been perpetrating this lie?

Well each of those groups, would at least be giving the chance to prove you wrong. In fact, they would be given recognition or sue someone to get it. They can say whatever they want, about any one they want and if they can't, they will sue to get it.

Whites on the other hand, have to watch every word for fear some other race will have a fit and sue, because whites owned slaves back in the day and now we all have to pay for it. Mexico is a sh&&hole, so we have to pay for it. And if we dont want to pay, then we're shunned as racists or hatemongers.

Irish, German or Lithuanian student groups do exactly what you said- celebrate a culture based on national origin, language and customs. Black student unions don't. They seem to be strictly race based.

Is the culture of Ethiopia similar to that of Kenya? No. But you don't see an Ethiopian student group or a Kenyan student group. Typically they're merged into a black student group.

When I was in college, the dashiki was the "uniform" of the black student groups. However, the dashiki comes from western Africa. It would be unusual for someone in Botswana or Zimbabwe to consider it traditional dress. Sort of like someone belonging to an Italian student group considering a kilt as a traditional Italian garment.

Same with language, food, music, art, everything that's supposed to be promoted or celebrated by these groups. Having a White Student Union does seem, to me, to be a waste of time and space but, as long as they don't start preaching hate or advocating violence, I don't see any problem with it.

Well, considering that Black Culture is not the majority and our culture was mostly erased when we were brought here I don't know how you can say that a black Student Union isn't doing those things (fellowship amongst people with cultural bonds in common.)

Have you ever been in a Black student union (yes, at my school ANYONE could join) we did fellowship, went to church, went to cultural events, saw Black artists, had debates about the plight of the community and how to improve it, even how to improve race relations with the majority culture....so not sure how you can talk about something if you are not really familiar with what goes on there.

Plus, I think you tell your age when speaking of your college experience...I don't deny some of those groups were exclusionary and not about celebration, but I have not experienced those myself.

I'm surprised that one of my top Graduate School choices is having this issue. This school actually only took 10 people for my program a year and prided it's self on diversity and picking a cohort that complimented each other. I was overwhelmed when I was chosen... unfortunately they waited until LATE summer to make their offer and I had already moved to Florida and had started summer session. But after reading this, I am more than glad I didn't end u at this school!

More to the point, I'm not entirely sure why anyone else would CARE if he starts a white student union. Why shouldn't he? There are already student unions for other ethnic groups, and a general student union for everyone. So why shouldn't whites have one? White people forming and joining a white-only student union aren't preventing anyone else from doing anything.

In a way, it's a lot like the argument in favor of gay marriage. If gay people get married, that doesn't prevent straights from getting married, so what exactly is your justification for stopping them?

What is anyone's justification for stopping this guy from starting a white student union, if this does not prevent anyone else from doing what they want.

In this case, of course, as is increasingly the case, it is liberals who are the enemies of freedom. The best they can come up with is:

Ceballos doesn't think Heimbach gets it. 'The nature of minority student groups on campus has always been an avenue for self-expression, empowerment, solidarity and social engagement in a predominantly white institution,' Ceballos said, with that institution being the college campus.

OK. But who cares? Who says that that's what an ethnic organization HAS to be? Why shouldn't they be free to make their organization whatever they want, as long as they're not interfering with the rights of anyone else?

"administrators and the student government walking a fine line between students' First Amendment rights and avoiding what many are calling outright racism at the Maryland university."

News flash: That's what the First Amendment is for. Protecting unpopular speech. Popular speech doesn't need to be protected.

"Taylor is described by the Southern Poverty Law Center as a 'white nationalist' who has argued black hate crimes against whites exponentially outnumber white-on-black hate crimes."

I could be wrong, but I don't think that's exactly what he said. Obviously, in a country where most of the people are white, most of the crimes of EVERY type are going to be committed by white people. His point, I believe, was that, if you take that fact into account, the average black person is far more likely to commit a hate crime against a white person than the average white person is to commit one against a black person.

And he's done more than just "argue" that. He's gone through the statistics to make a pretty convincing case.

But that's not really the point. He could be right, he could be wrong. I don't really know enough about it to say for sure. But if he's wrong, why not say that he's wrong? What if it turns out that he IS right? Should he not say it? Is he a terrible, horrible man for pointing out a simple fact, even if it turns out to be true?

This is a matter of principle. Either every student group has the right to for a student union, on none. It's not a matter of "minority" (there are 3 women's groups & women are more than 60% of the student body). There is at least one blacks' group-that's right, a racial group, a few feminist, some Muslim, Hispanic, Greek, a few homosexual groups etc. So- why this opposition to white student union ? Evidently, people of white European ancestry have some common ethnic & cultural identity different from Hispanic, black, Asian etc. And they want to affirm it, cherish it & expose those who try to belittle it. Essentially- black, Asian and Hispanic are racial groups. What does anyone have against establishment of another racial student group ? Not a single white person who does not belong to this student union can be forced to join it. And- do black, Hispanic or Chinese and other Asian groups want to see students of Polish, German, English or Irish ancestry, white phenotype, among them ?

So, it's a matter of principle. It's about democracy.

A person with one black parent and one white parent would be welcome at the black student union but not at the white student union. That's the difference. If the white student union were indeed about affirming European ancestry (as you falsely imply), it would consider all people with European ancestry to be "white", regardless of what other ancestry they may have. But it does not. What it does is exclude people with non-European ancestry, thereby showing it is about belittling non-European ancestry.

Says who besides you? In order to follow the university guidelines that apply to all groups, no one can be excluded because of their race.

"The organization has the right to exist as long as they follow all the rights and regulations; we cannot stop a group from forming an organization," Collins said. "No student organization on our campus can in fact restrict by race membership."

There reason you have a Black or Hispanic student union is not about RACE, it's about having a voice on a predominate white campus. White people, look at the filer it said "LOVE YOUR RACE" If anyone of you went to college or a university tell where have you ever see a sign like that promoted by a Black or Hispanic student union. Giving your history worldwide and the current level of racial tension here in America , this is a red flag to minorities. Now white folk please tell me, is being the majority not good enough for you? Wow! I just watched the video! It seems the student who wants to start this white student union may want to out of hate. Just like we cant change the past of slavery, we cant change the fact that the south lost the civil war (thank God). Some people try to say that the civil war was about the federal gov wanting more power, but those are the same people that say slavery wasnt that bad and it was just business. Thats bullsh&^ slavery was about hate!! Just black people should move on from slavery (not forget, just not let it hold us back) white hate groups need to except the fact that black people have contributed many things to OUR COUNTRY including their lives. Black people are not slaves anymore and we never will be again, so we have to learn how to peacefully coexist or NO ONE WINS!!!!!! To any white person that blames all the crime on black people remember that unfortunately blacks kill other blacks more than blacks kill white people, but at the same time almost every time some innocent white child is raped or kidnapped it is at the hands of a white man!! We must stop all this hate and foolishness and work together or at the very least peacefully coexist!!!!

Black people who are upset over slavery need to direct their anger at their own ancestors who sold them into slavery. They also need to do something about the on-going slavery in Africa. Time the blacks walk the talk.

I do not understand the fuss. this is forward thinking of these white students. They know that by the time they have kids in college whites will be a minority.

I just hope as minorities they do not have to go threw ANYTHING close to what todays minorities had to go through and hence the actual reasons for black or latino student unions.

I dont know where to begin.First of all just because white people are the dominate racial group in this country should not mean that this kid cant start a student union for white students as long as it follows the same rules as other unions.So called minorities(I HATE THAT TERM) can start unions based around there respective cultures so why cant white students start a union and embrace their culture?The only problem I see with this is if it is based around hate ,I would be great if black students joined and maybe they could all learn to understand each other.It is impossible to completely erase the effect of racial discrimination in this country,so I think the best thing for black students to do is get the best education possible and start their own companies that give everyone a fair chance at employment,but no matter what there will always be tension among different racial groups,as long as it doesnt cross the line of criminality we must all except that reality.

MAJORITY DOES NOT MATTER. First of all, if you look at the stats, whites are QUICKLY dropping off the population map. In only about 20 years whites will truly be a minority. According to your logic, you want feminist groups outlawed too? You said majorities don't need groups. So say bye bye to feminist groups because women make up 60% of college students...a majority. Isn't it great to see logic?

There is nothing wrong with a White Students' Union, especially if it is open to everybody and most importantly, DOES NOT PROMOTE HATE. We had a Caribbean students Union which was open to everyone, including the whiteboy from Pennsylvania who came for the spicy food and the Jewish boy from Long Island who was fascinated by the way Caribbean women danced. Nothing wrong with having a white students' union as long as, and I repeat, it does not promote Hate.

If it is allowed for other groups then singling one out and denying it the same ability is wrong - period.

Now if there are proven and group sponsored rac/ism activities then it could be denied on that basis but again the EXACT same rules apply to ALL other groups. So if they investigate this group and find some speaker has been labeled by the joke SPLC as a "ha/te" person then it is meaningless just as if some other group has unfounded critics against a member of that organization.

Its not the point that the students want to start a white student union. Honestly, Im black and I feel that every race has a group of their own, usually being the minorities of the school. The African American union, Hispanic Union, Asian American, Chinese American union etc. The problem is that in this country when you get a group of white people together, a very negative stigma surrounds that. The KKK being the main one, however whites can say the same about black "black panther party". Nonetheless in this country there have been far more racial incidents and racial backlash from "white unions", not jut black people, but against jewish, gays, women, etc. So naturally of course people who arent white are going to immediately assume it is for bad intentions!

No they can't say the same thing about the Panthers. Do not compare the KKK with the Panthers. There is a big difference.

The KKK was created out of pure racism and white superiority mentality. The Panthers was created to fight oppression and equality for Black people. Just like anyone or any group who stands up to whiter superiority it's a problem and the Panthers have been labeled just like MLK, Malcom, Farrakhan, Medgar Evers, Fannie Lou Hammer, Nelson Mandela and countless others.

Their reasoning behind wanting a White union is interesting, seeing as though it was the actions of white people which led to the racial problems in this country. Racism in America is as American as apple pie.

You need to read a little history yourself.

Few groups do not have a history of intolerance towards others and towards themselves by others.

Look at the Irish, Catholics, etc.

The point is an entire demographic "GROUP" can't be found guilty of something because a SMALL minority within that group has decided to do bad things. To do otherwise shows nothing but a lack of knowledge of the vast number of whites who have fought hard for other groups, projection and intolerance on your part.

They should be able to start this white group...why not? But it would be so interesting to see the students of color join it too, just like some white students have joined the black student group, since they would not be allowed to discriminate based on color.

This student is just trying to make a point, so let him make it and see where he goes from there. But I really do hope students of color join it as well.

That group has turned into nothing more than a money laundering operation by Dees.

One look at their listing of "ha/te groups" reveals lots. They have tons of white groups a few black groups and NO OTHERS. They refuse to accept any other demographic has ha/te groups while anyone with a second grade education knows that is false. the people behind this are like the little spoiled kid who gets everything he wants, but because he can't have that ONE thing, he is going to pitch a fit over it. The reason that this is wrong, and it is ok for us to have black student unions, for example, is due to the fact that society is still completely unequal. non-white student unions give non-white students a place for solidarity and understanding, considering that the complete entirety of the rest of society is white-oriented. Until whites (and I am one) have no power in government or wealth, then they we shouldn't do stupid stunts like this. This is would be exactly like Mitt Romney going on food stamps when he was unemployed for "fairness" sake.

We have heard much about the 'changing demographics of America'. About how white people will no longer be the majority. About the influx of millions and millions of Mexican nationals who procreate at a much faster rate than whites (for the most part).

So if white people are now in the minority....what's the problem?

I'm going to apply for affirmative action at my first opportunity. My white minority kids are going to need every break they can get to survive in a brown-dominated society. :)

This makes me so sad, this group is not trying to uplift anyone or anything, they are trying to divide, if they weren't then why is the invited speaker a hate monger? If you want to start a club or union or group with people similar to yourself I am all for that.

However, when you need to spread and perpetuate hate to do that...its a major problem...and it becomes transparent what your group is representing, exclusion and not inclusion. Honestly, I would not feel comfortable around this group of people...they tend to be violent and unformed.

I've said it before, and I'll say it again, a white student union is NOT the same as a black student union, just as a white beauty pageant is not the same as a black beauty pageant. Changing the word "black" to the word "white" does not create the same type of organization, despite how it may graphically appear when typed on a form. "White" hegemonic practices dominate American culture. The point of minority organizations is to promote inclusion. The point of "white" organizations is to promote exclusion. Minority organizations are attempts to rebel against oppression. "White" organizations are attempts to retain privilege and by their very nature promote oppression. These are opposing agendas. Opposing objectives.

Furthermore, the notion that "whites" are somehow being deprived is delusional. It's like saying, "I want all the cake, and I can't have it, so I'm being deprived," despite the fact that you already have most of the cake. Most student unions are "white." Most politicians are white. Most CEOs are white.

It sickens me when I hear people blather on about "reverse discrimination" and their rights being suppressed because some miniscule percentage of their privilege has been infringed upon. And as an educator, it saddens me to see young people who lack the rational skills to realize that if you drop from having 100% of everything to having 90% of everything you are not being deprived.

Open a magazine and you will see very few minorities. Turn on your television, who dominates the screen? Whites make up 81.6% of the work force and 83.5% of managers.They still outearn blacks and hispanics by more than 30%. GET A CLUE!
